Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a collapsible and foldable chair which, when collapsed, retains its general shape and is easily foldable for storage or transport. 2. Description of the Prior Art The prior art discloses various folding or collapsible chairs having various features to facilitate folding or storage. Kakimoto, U.S. Pat. No. 5,215,280, shows a folding stool with a base, a stool support member, a top member and a hinge. The hinge is attached to the base, and the top and bottom members are hinged to the stool support member. The top member is foldable relative to the base and stool support member. The stool support member is foldable relative to the base. The hinge has a left and right hinge portion which are pivotally connected to the base and the base and stool support member, respectively. The top and bottom members are pivotally connected to the stool support member. The top member and bottom member are pivotal to the hinge and each other. The stool support member is not pivotal to the base. Smith, U.S. Pat. No. 2,130,537, shows a collapsible chair having a collapsible base, four flexible legs, a back, and a seat. The legs each have a hinge which is hinged to the base at one end and to the seat at the other end. The seat is pivotally connected to the legs. The seat is hinged at each end of the seat to the base at one end and to the legs at the other end. The seat is pivotable relative to the base and legs. Bruen, U.S. Pat. No. 5,114,104, shows a collapsible chair having a base, a back and a seat. The back extends upwardly from the seat and has a hinge with an up pivot defined by the back and a down pivot defined by the base. The seat is hinged to the back and the base. A side of the seat is pivotally connected to the base. Staley, U.S. Pat. No. 6,450,858, shows a collapsible chair having a base, four legs, a back, a foldable seat, and a seat back hinge. The legs each have a hinge portion which is h

Try to find and organize the right hobby, sport or fitness activity according to your daily routine. Sports and Fitness Manager is an intuitive application designed to help you manage all your daily or monthly sports events in a professional way. Thanks to its elegant interface, you can create as many profiles as you want in order to track all your sports activities from a notebook, mobile phone or computer. You can assign names, addresses, e-mail addresses and picture to each profile to help you easily identify your clients. Sports and Fitness Manager will make it easier for you to schedule important appointments with a coach, trainer, or a family member. You can plan the weekly or monthly activities of your football, volleyball, or tennis team. You can set working hours for each day of the week. You can also set a recurrence pattern. Create any number of profile and teams and set the working hours. Presently Sports and Fitness Manager provides a calendar view for each profile; you can assign labels for each client profile and set the alarm sound for your meetings. You can export your list to HTML or TXT. You can also Import and Export your list to iCalendar or Microsoft Outlook. Limitation: I'm sure many of the limitations will be easily managed with an auto-fill feature. However, there is no data-type feature allowing you to use the application as a day-book: weekly/monthly record. If you need more information about Sports and Fitness Manager, I recommend you to check out their video, website, or manual. Sports and Fitness Manager is a comprehensive application designed to offer an easy method to schedule and handle daily sports events (fitness, football, volleyball, tennis) with your personal coaches and instructors. Plan upcoming events and meetings The app can be used by individuals, trainers and team leaders to manage daily appointments and working hours for their players or clients, as well as and keep track of all the scheduled meetings they might have. The provided interface is intuitive and divided into a ribbon menu, a resource panel, scheduler, customers, and a monthly calendar. Enter the customer's info and plan events To make a new record, all you need to do is input the corresponding name, a characteristic image from the icon gallery, and a background color to easily spot the individual's tasks. Adding a new event requires a few details such as title, location, a colored label, starting and ending time, fee, as well as the customer information (address, e-mail, phone number). Plus, you can set a recurrence pattern for every week, month or year. Export your list to HTML or TXT and filter the clients The app lets you sort the customers based on the name and details. It would've been nice if it provided additional fields such as age, address, family members or skills. It's possible to specify the working hours range for each profile, and export the list to XLS, HTML, XML or TXT. Choose the alert tone and back up your database The alarm sound can be changed with a custom one from the computer in one of the supported formats (e.g. WAV, MP3, MID). The app offers a synchronization feature that lets you import and export the database from and to iCalendar or Microsoft Outlook. Plus, can generate a backup file at a specific time interval. Useful sport and fitness manager To conclude, Sports and Fitness Manager is a reliable utility that comes in handy when you want to create and manage important appointments, set daily working hours for your clients, and schedule weekly or monthly meetings in an efficient manner.
